ANNUAL PARISH SUPPER.

Enjoyable Programme was Carried Out at St. James' Episcopal Parish House.

The annual parish supper of the St. James' Episcopal church of Norwich was held at the parish house Thursday evening. There was a large attendance and everyone did full justice to the chicken pie supper prepared by the Women's Guild, under the capable management of the president, Mrs. Charles Weeks. The committee in charge of the supper were Mrs. A. Taylor, Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. George Murphy and Mrs. Henry Sauer, assisted by Mrs. William McKelvey, Mrs. Bert Williams, Mrs. George Bogues, Mrs. Christian Boer and Mrs. Arthur Barrett as waitresses. The committee on decorations were Mrs. Charles Week, Mrs. William Mitchell and Mrs. A. C. Sherburne. There was speaking by Rev. L. C. Sherburne and Rev. William Hooker, a former rector of the parish. Reports were read by Mrs. Thelma Harkness of the Women's Guild, Miss Evelyn Sauer of the Parish Aid and Charles Harkness of the Men's club, which showed that all his societies had done excellent work during the year. Charles Week gave a humorous recitation in his usual good style and Messrs. Mitchell and Smith gave a very amusing vaudeville sketch. After supper dancing was enjoyed by all present, music being furnished by Miss Olive McKelvey, Mrs. George Mansfield and Mrs. Lillian Laus and Christian Boer. The party broke up at a late hour after having spent a very pleasant evening.

Sunday afternoon 194 visitors improved the advantages of the Church's swimming pool.

Norwich C. E. Union's Annual Meeting

W. G. Parks of Hanover Chosen President for the Coming Year—George F. Hyde of Norwich Town Was Named Vice President—Twelve of Fourteen Societies in the Union Responded to the Roll Call—Rev. G. H. Strouse Delivered Address on the Study of the Four Gospels.

The annual meeting of the Norwich Christian Endeavor Local Union was held with the society in Lebanon on Saturday afternoon and evening. The platform of the church was decorated with autumn leaves and white chrysanthemums and on the back of the pulpit was a large C. E. of leaves and flowers. Rev. H. A. Campbell, the pastor of the church, conducted the devotional service.

The address of welcome was given by Miss Helen Eadie of Hanover and the response by William G. Parks, the president. After an anthem by the choir, James L. Case, president of the Norwich Y. M. C. A., gave an address on Christ, Our Model in Personal Activities.

He said Christ is an ideal. He divided our activities into four parts—business, social, home and personal, which summed up makes a complete religious life. He then recalled Scripture pictures of Christ demonstrating how he was active in all these ways. In the business life he cited Peter and the draught of fishes. The social life in the wedding at Galilee, the home life in which he was subject to his parents and then the home of Mary, Martha and Lazarus. He did personal work in dealing with men and women separately, as in the cases of the Samaritan woman and the rich young man. Christ has given each one something to do. We have great responsibility in personal activity. Conditions will be just the same when we go back to our societies, but we should carry something back to help conditions.

Mr. Park conducted the business meeting, appointing E. H. Hixson of Jewett City as secretary pro tem. O. F. Maples of Bozrah, the treasurer, gave his annual report and Hixson read the annual report of the secretary. Miss Ruth Potter of Norwich Town, the Junior C. E. secretary, read her report. She said one of the society had been formed this year, making three in the union.

Report of Missionary Committee. Miss Helen Eadie of Hanover read the report of the missionary committee, giving an account of their work. One society supports a boy to be educated for Christian work. Dr. Parker's work was contributed by all the Congregational societies. Comrades in Service—the King's Highway are used by several societies. Regular missionary meetings are held by the societies. Contributions are sent to various mission needs, both home and abroad.

Lookout Committee.

George F. Hyde of Norwich Town gave the look out committee's report. Rev. Arthur Varley of Taftville delivered an address on Christ Our Model in Preparation. In Christian Endeavor work the young people have themselves to the church and have the great task of conserving righteousness through the work of the church. The accomplishment of such a task can truly be built and founded on Jesus Christ, the Lord and savior of the world. He sometimes wished the old times would come back. Christ still remains the world's supreme authority in morals and religion, faith and practice. In thinking over what were the composite parts of this leading example, Jesus Christ, he said, we have good old fashioned things. Christ always took time to begin with. We should take time to think soundly, straightly and deeply for the task. He was a man of keen, sympathetic insight into the very heart of God. He had a clear, intelligent insight of the magnitude of his task. If the means anything at all to us it means we must do as our Model did and go to work and succeed that we think will the day of your redemption draw nigh.

Copies of the C. E. Battle Cry used at the state convention were distributed and the song sung as the closing number of the afternoon service. Supper was served by the Lebanon society.

The Evening Session.

The evening session was opened with a praise service, led by Mr. Park. A solo, The Plains of Peace, was sung by Rev. Benjamin Clark, pastor of the Baptist church at Lebanon.

Rev. George H. Strouse of Norwich spoke on the Study of the Four Gospels. He began by telling the young that there never was a time when people should not take the stand for church as now. There is an absolute necessity for a model. We are engaged in building the state temple of character, composed of thousands and millions of acts. There are no little things—everything is of great account. The gospel presents the same beautiful picture of Christ. Matthew shows him as King. Go out and disciple the nations. Mark shows Jesus as the Teller, a busy, working man. The path to greatness is through the avenue of service. Some of us are so dignified in the world that we are of no account at all for Jesus. The fundamental law of society is to serve. Luke shows Jesus as the highest and most perfect type of man who ever walked the earth. A person who has not accepted Christ has not the power of appreciation.

John was a mystic and saw beneath the surface of life. He exacted a cost. Mr. Strouse's talk was necessarily abbreviated as the lighting plant of the church began to go out of commission.

Election of Officers. The nominating committee, George F. Hyde and Mrs. E. H. Hixson, presented the following names of persons to serve the Union for another year: President, W. G. Parks of Hanover; vice president, G. F. Hyde of Norwich Town; recording secretary, Mrs. E. F. York of Goshen; treasurer, O. F. Maples of Bozrah; Junior superintendent, Miss Ruth Potter of Norwich Town; missionary superintendent, Miss Helen Eadie of Hanover. These officers were elected.

Twelve of the fourteen societies in the Union responded to the roll call, Jewett City Congregational 3, Griswold 3, Newent 4, Bozrah 13, Hanover 6, Norwich Town 16, Goshen 11, Leftingwell 11, Federated church 5, Scotland Road 1, Lebanon 32, Park church 1.

A vote of thanks was given the entertaining society and the Misses Leffingwell was to have given some shoes from the state convention, but it was omitted for the same reason that Mr. Strouse's address was not finished.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY BY 20,000 IN THIS STATE.

Prediction Made by Chairman Roraback of State Central Committee.

Republican victory in Connecticut by 20,000 or better plurality, with the national and state tickets running close together was the prediction made Saturday by J. Henry Roraback, the chairman of the state central committee, when asked for a statement of his views of the outlook for Tuesday's election. He predicted the re-election of United States Senator George P. McLean and the five republican congressmen.

One after another, according to Mr. Roraback, the "issues" that have bobbed up during the campaign have appeared and left Connecticut voters considering the real issue that has made Connecticut a republican state the need of a great industrial commonwealth such as this for a protective tariff.

After the democrats began to chant, "The issue is nothing but a tariff," began doing some thinking, and they refused to take up the chant, for their thoughts brought mental pictures of Vera Cruz, of Carrizal, of Columbus, New Mexico, and of Pershing's expedition into Mexico, of the loss of a great number of American soldiers. They thought of more Americans killed in Mexico than the total losses of our troops during the Spanish war. They recalled the more or less open and notorious dealings on the part of the Wilson administration with Villa and the other bandits, and the cooperation with Villa admitted by Wilson to Senator Borah. Connecticut voters were quick to realize that the backbone in the White House would have given us peace—with honor—instead of a peace that has lost to us the respect of the world. They know that the reason we have been dragged into war by the foreign policy, or lack of policy, of the Wilson administration. The president could not have gone to war without a vote of congress and at no time did more than twenty members of congress want to fight.

"Connecticut is talking tariff, and that is the best possible omen for republican success. The republican party is pledged to an adequate protective tariff to safeguard the working man so that good times may be his without the outside influence of a war abroad, with its temporary prosperity. The workmen of the state know that the democratic 'tariff commission' proposal is nothing but bait for the voters and that President Wilson and the democrats stand ready to put the knife into Connecticut again if they get a chance. They knew that Senator Oscar Underwood and President Wilson intend that there shall be no protective feature in a tariff written by the commission they propose, that the South will make the tariff and New England will have to take the heat of it. Connecticut will not stand for a party that does not promise her workmen protection.

There will be about 20,000 new votes in this election, and a total of close to 310,000. In 1912, the vote for president was: Wilson, 74,561; Taft, 68,324; Roosevelt, 34,129. In 1914, Governor Holcomb polled 91,243 votes and Lyman T. Tingle, the democratic candidate, received 73,888 votes, making 165,131 votes. A study of these figures shows that at least 75 per cent. of the progressives of 1912 were back in the republican column, even when there was a progressive candidate in the field. We are certain that between 90 and 95 per cent. of the progressive vote of 1912 in Connecticut will be cast for Governor Hughes on Tuesday.

"I do not look for any great variance between the vote for national and state tickets, including the vote for Senator McLean. While there are a few who will vote the republican state ticket and will vote for the re-election of President Wilson, there are many democrats who will vote for Mr. Hughes.

"There are many undercurrents in the situation even at this late date because of which I would not be surprised if the republican pluralities should far exceed 50,000.

"We will re-elect the five republican congressmen by substantial majorities. The whole ticket is absolutely safe. The next Connecticut legislature will have over 45 democrats in the house of representatives and not more than five or six democrats in the senate. The record of the last administration, which turned democratic deficits into a republican surplus and set aside a sinking fund to pay for democratic dead horses, makes it certain that Connecticut will want the same men to guide its state affairs for another two years.

"You may say that I am absolutely certain that Connecticut will be safe in the republican ranks on Tuesday."
